

California's Bizarre Toll Hits 20

YUBA CITY, Calif. (AP) — Eight more bodies have been dug up in fruit orchards near here, bringing to 20 the number found along the Feather River, law enforcement officers said.

"It seems there's no end to them," a weary deputy sheriff said as the toll mounted Thursday.

Sheriff Roy D. Whiteaker said three more bodies were found Thursday afternoon for a total of 15.

Later, a Yuba City policeman and a deputy sheriff said the number of bodies rose to 20 as night fell.

There were no descriptions of the latest five bodies.

Isolated in a Yuba City jail and charged Wednesday with 10 of the murders was Juan V. Corona, 37, of Yuba City, who spent three months in a state mental hospital in 1956.

There still was no apparent motive for the macabre slayings.

The three bodies reported by Whiteaker were in crude, shallow graves in peach and plum orchards. "I have no idea" how long the search will continue," the sheriff said.

Officers worked in cool rain Thursday, using a tractor-driven trench digger, then shovels to find three bodies.

Suspected graves have been discovered during general searches by lawmen and farmers in a mile-square area along the Feather River five miles north of Yuba City. Whiteaker described them as "indentations" in the soil.

He declined to say whether officers had probed any suspected sites and found them empty.

"We do believe there are some more areas that need to be checked out and searched," said the sheriff, who refused to discuss any aspect of Corona's involvement other than to say

"we're certain he committed the murders."

Corona, a native of Mexico, has operated a farm labor contracting service off and on for 15 years in Yuba City, collecting crews for ranchers at harvest time. With his wife and four daughters, aged 4 through 8, he lived in a three-year-old, $22,000 tract home.

His wife Gloria described him as a good husband and father who couldn't kill anyone.

"I love him and always will want him back home. He ... couldn't have done anything like this," she said.

Sutter County Superior Court records disclosed that Corona, then 22, was committed to Dewitt State Hospital at Auburn, about 50 miles to the southeast, on Jan. 16, 1956, at the request of his brother, Natividad, and two doctors who gave a tentative diagnosis of schizophrenia.

Corona was released as "recovered" three months and two days later.

It also was learned that Corona and his brother were sued for $800,000 in damages a year ago by Jose Romero Raya who claimed the brothers severely beat him. A judge in nearby Marysville awarded $250,000 in still unpaid damages, calling the case "one of the most vicious to come before the court." No criminal charge was filed.

Up to this morning, five of the victims were known to have been identified. The job was complicated by varying stages on decomposition of the bodies and the fact that most were believed to have been transients.

The first body was found May 20, eight were unearthed Tuesday and three more were discovered Wednesday.

Most of the men were fully dressed with their shirts pulled up over extended arms, but Whiteaker said one victim had no trousers.

They were killed over a period of two months with the most recent slayings occurring within 48 hours of the discovery of the bodies.

Acquaintances of Corona said all the men he hired in his labor contracting business were Mexicans or Mexican-Americans. None of the murder victims were.

Missing person reports began to pour into the sheriff's office in Yuba City, a town of 14,000 that calls itself America's peach bowl. Some descriptions appeared to match some victims, a deputy said.

Westchester Man Killed in Accident

By WALTER S. CLARK

KINGSTON

A 64-year-old Westchester County motorist was fatally injured at 5:30 p. m. Thursday when the car he was driving went out of control on the Colonel Chandler Drive and overturned after hitting a culvert.

Kingston Police who investigated the mishap identified the victim of the fifth highway death to occur in Ulster County this month as John C. Lucas of 5 Baylor Circle, White Plains.

According to police the motorist suffered a broken right leg, fractures of seven ribs and internal injuries.

Lucas was removed from the scene of the fatality by Doctor's Ambulance Service and taken to Benedictine Hospital where he died at 10:10 p. m. in the emergency room, according to a spokesman at the hospital.

The vehicle operated by Lucas was southbound on the highway when the driver apparently lost control. The car veered off the left side of the driving lane and traveled approximately 150 feet along the center mall, striking a culvert which caused the car to flip over. The vehicle continued on for another 150 feet, crossing the southbound lane and coming to a stop on its roof against guard rails.

The man was ejected from the automobile.

Lucas was the county's 18th traffic fatality of 1971. The 18th highway death in the county in 1970 was recorded by authorities on July 8 when a 13-year-old New York City boy died of injuries suffered in a one car accident on Route 212 at Shultis Corners, Town of Saugerties, the previous day.

Meanwhile, Highland State Police reported a one-car accident occurred at 1:30 a. m. today on Route 9W in the Town of Lloyd.

Troopers G. J. Hazlett and B. S. O'Connor's report noted that Clyde Robinson, 41, of 200 Elliott Street, Stratford, Conn., was driving north on the highway when he lost control as the car went off the east side of the road and crashed into guard rails.

Robinson apparently escaped serious injury. He later submitted to a blood test troopers said, and was booked for driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated.

Arraigned before Lloyd Town Justice Lewis DiStasi, the motorist pleaded innocent. He was held in $50 bail and hearing was adjourned until June 19.

Mulholland emphasized that the feasibility study is crucial. "We are seeking to determine if mass transit can succeed financially in Kingston," he told The Freeman. "If the study shows that the franchise is operating at a loss, either the city or the carrier will have to guarantee that it will subsidize it."

Mulholland added that "the state is very much concerned about the future of mass transit in Kingston." Mulholland and

by HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

City officials are in Albany today meeting with representatives from the State Department of Transportation in an effort to save Kingston's financially plagued bus system.

Representing the city are members of the Common Council's Railroad and Bus Committee and Corporation Council Aaron E. Klein, Thomas K. Wilson, owner of Urban Transit, Inc., which operates buses in Kingston, joined the Kingston delegation which met with Howard B. Clarkson, director of the Department of Transportation's Project Development Bureau and Christopher B. Mulholland, principal motor carrier transportation specialist.

The Railroad and Bus Committee of the Council includes Aldermen Clifford G. Simms (R-13th Ward) and Michael S. Perry (D-Seventh Ward), the chairman. Simms was unable to attend due to a previous business commitment.

Officials hoped to lay the groundwork for a feasibility study of Kingston's mass transit system which could lead to state subsidy.

Mulholland explained to The Freeman that under a $2.5 billion transportation bond issue on the ballot this fall, some $200 million has been set aside to aid mass transit in upstate New York.

Clarkson were in Kingston about six weeks ago on an inspection tour and plan to make other trips during the feasibility study.

The feasibility study, Mulholland said, should show that mass transit can operate in Kingston and "break even" for at least a ten-year period. He explained that the state is not allowed to give the city money towards the operating costs of its transit system although capital grants for new equipment are allowed.

Note: When speaking of subsidies, city vis a vis private owners, Mulholland said that private owners do not (usually) subsidize transit systems, being in business to make a profit. He indicated that if the transit system is losing money on an operation level, then the city would have to guarantee the difference (subsidize) in order to get approval for state funds.

Special

"If the transit system is not feasible," Mulholland concluded, "We would have to advise against capital grants."

The Common Council has already taken some action in the bus situation, authorizing Mayor Francis R. Koenig to spend $1,000 for the purchase of locked coin boxes for the buses, and giving its approval of a feasibility study.

The boxes will be installed sometime next week, according to Wilson, who was reached at his Wallkill offices. Under that system, the bus driver will no longer make change. Exact change will be required of the passengers.

Wilson, when interviewed by The Freeman, said his financial situation "hadn't changed much." "We're still losing money," he said.

Wilson's alleged losses almost led to a shutdown of the city transit system on April 1 of this year. That was averted, however, when the Council took action on the coin boxes and the feasibility study at its March 2 meeting.

Previous to that, on Feb. 15, Mayor Koenig had reported to the public that Wilson had lost 82,000 passengers in 1970 compared to 1969 which resulted in a loss of $32,000.

In late March, Wilson agreed to operate the buses on a month to month basis pending action by the city and the state.

Koenig Orders 6 Pct. Cut To Avoid Tax Hike in '72

KINGSTON was cut by $32,500, most of Mayor Francis R. Koenig, that for a new heating plant, moving to avert a tax increase. The department of public works in 1972, has ordered a six per cent budget reduction by $45,000; after receiving official word $50,000 (most of that for a new heating plant) and "miscellaneous government expenses" of some $375,000.

"We have to cut back," the (some 50 to 60 items, according to the mayor) was cut by $55,000.

The bulk of the state cuts code enforcement program, due to the account "state aid in that department. State aid to highways was cut $2,500 demolition program by $50,000; state aid under the code enforcement will be urban renewal program for on cut.

Street parking in the uptown Koenig said that "at the present time" there will be no lay-off for police equipment (radios off of city workers, adding that a desk console) was cut by vacancies due to retirement or $27,500 and the beautification program would not be filled.

The police department was get is "good," according to the hit the hardest under Koenig's mayor adding that department reductions, losing some $70,000 heads have been given revised which includes the radio and budgets and will not be allowed the console. The fire department to exceed them.

The mayor's capital construction fund, which includes the purchase of various pieces of equipment along with the street program and sewage construction, adding up to almost $245,000, was not touched.

Koenig also made public a letter from M. Nicholas Sinacori, regional director for the State Department of Transportation, concerning (the mayor's) inquiries on plans for the widening of Albany Avenue.

"I regret to advise you," Sinacori wrote Koenig, "that we have made very little progress on the Albany Avenue Arterial project in Kingston."

"We have spent much of this time (since Koenig's inquiry last year) in taking new and updated traffic counts to insure that the traffic volumes considered will reflect current conditions. These traffic evaluation studies have not yet been completed."

"Unfortunately, at this time," Sinacori concluded, "because of the schedule of other critical projects and overall budget limitations, I cannot advise you when this project may be initiated and what schedules we may hope to develop. We consider the project essential and will do what we can to keep it active for future development."

Koenig had been informed by Sinacori last year that a public hearing on the project would be held "in the latter part of 1971."

Meanwhile, Alderman John Finch (D-Fifth Ward) who represents that part of the city, expressed strong opposition to the widening of Albany Avenue and said that he will ask for a public hearing on the proposal. Finch cited the numerous children in that residential area and said that a four-lane highway would create a definite hazard to them.

Mayor Koenig, in wrapping up his budget message, noted that it is possible that the state legislature may pass a supplemental budget before it adjourns but he added, "We don't know that for a fact. We couldn't wait. We had to go on the presumption that we wouldn't be getting the money."

Sewer Bids Rejected By Ulster Town Board

By LYNN MULVANEY

TOWN OF ULSTER
Two bids for the construction of the Town of Ulster collection sewers project, received Thursday night were rejected by the Ulster Town Board, according to Supervisor Carmine Sabino who said the project will be rebid at a future date.

Only two bids were received, both considered too high. One was from D'Annunzio Bros., Inc., Scotch Plains, N.J. for $4,086,376 and the second was from John Arborio Inc., Poughkeepsie, in the amount of $5,282,739.45.

Sabino said the towns consulting engineers, J. Kenneth Fraser Associates of Rensselaer will tabulate the bids and give the board an official opinion concerning further action in the matter.

Last month the board approved a resolution authorizing the advertising for bids for contract No. 3 of the $4.5 million project for the Ulster Sewer improvement covering collection sewers.

Budd Randle Inc., of Oakland, N.J. was recently awarded the contract for the interceptor sewer lines on an adjusted bidding of $420,898.25.

The estimate of the project, a 12-acre site along Esopus Creek, the former Randolph Creek, reflects a $200,000 saving to sewer district taxpayers.

Authorization to advertise for bids for the proposed sewage treatment plant estimated to cost $944,000 as part of the project, was also given by the Town Board in mid-May.

Sabino said bids on the plant will be received up to June 17 at 7 p.m. when the bids will be opened at a meeting of the Town Board in the Lake Katrine Grange Hall.

The project calls for a .85 million gallons per day primary and secondary sewer plant on the south by the city line and the financial arrangements according to Sabino will include funds from a bond issue totaling about $4,280,000. State and federal aid, if all stipulations are met, will total $1,014,300. Of this sum $963,000 has already been allocated. A federal grant of $512,000 or 30 per cent was announced previously. The Pure Waters Authority also granted 30 per cent toward the project. The town will also receive another 10 per cent on the basis of the state grant which had to be at least 25 per cent to be eligible for federal bonus.

The treatment plant will be constructed in stages, with the first stage to be built when the original sewer line installations are made.

The facility will serve about 1,580 families within the bounds of the sewer improvement area. The project embraces an area of about 3.94 square miles and is bounded on the north by Leggs Mills Road; on the east by a natural drainage divide running generally parallel to and to the east of Rt. 9W; on the south by the city line and

VanKleeck Loses Appeal Against UR Agency

KINGSTON
Federal Judge Irving Ben Cooper sitting in New York City has ruled against William Van Kleeck of Hurley Avenue in his court case with the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency.

Agency attorney Harry Gold told The Freeman that he was notified Thursday of the May 25 decision by Judge Cooper.

Van Kleeck is the owner of a used car lot on Hurley Avenue and had contended that the agency had discriminated against him because it had not allowed to relocate his business within the Uptown Project.

The case went to County Judge Raymond J. Mino who ordered Van Kleeck evicted. Van Kleeck took the case to federal courts. In ruling against Van Kleeck Judge Cooper lifted a temporary restraining order that had prevented the urban renewal agency from taking possession of Van Kleeck's property and denied a motion for a temporary injunction.

Agency officials said they would take immediate steps to take possession of the property which is to be sold to Plaza Memorial Inc. for the construction of a funeral home.

The agency also notified The Freeman that its case against Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation concerning the payment of the installation of underground power lines in the Broadway East project was heard in court on Wednesday in Albany and that a decision is expected by July 6th and 7th.

The state's highest court, the State Court of Appeals, agreed several months ago to reopen the case which has been in and out of court for almost three years.

At issue is some $90,000, the difference in cost between the installation of overhead and underground lines for the Rondout Gardens apartment complex in Broadway East.

The agency claims that under federal urban renewal requirements all power lines in project areas must be underground. The utility installed the lines, but then sued the agency to recover the difference in cost between the underground and overhead lines.

The State Appellate Court ruled against the agency in December of 1968 by a 3-2 vote but the agency appealed the case to the Court of Appeals.

BOCES Meeting...Progress Report on New Building

NEW PALTZ
Tentative approval of space requirements and tentative date for building proposal referendum were presented at the regular meeting of the Ulster County Board of Cooperative Educational Services last night.

Dr. Jack Roosa, executive officer, gave a progress report on the building proposal, noting that the board is "so far very pleased" with evaluation tests at the proposed site. BOCES has taken option on a 50-acre tract of land in Bloomington for a vocational and special educational center.

Space requirements for these two phases of BOCES operation have received tentative approval of the New York State Education Department and the architect, Mowry Associates of Binghamton, will now prepare sketches and line drawings incorporating the approved space requirements.

The plans will come to a public referendum in late November according to tentative decisions made at the board meeting last night.

Water tests revealed a 40 to 70-gallon-per-minute water supply at the site which Dr. Roosa said was "very adequate." Soil borings and soil tests are being conducted now.

In other business the board approved a $4,000 federal fund grant for social studies materials for the Special Education Instructional Materials Center.

A number of appointments and resignations were approved by the board.

Permanent appointments were granted Catherine Thorn, Joyce Miller, Shirley Wheeler and Christine Rowe, typists; Gail Decker, Darlene Gill, Doris Evanoff, Judy Taft, key punch operators, and Richard Hubbard, computer operator.

Probationary appointees are Patricia Bird, typist, and Jane Litvaitis, special education teacher.

Resignations accepted were Judy DePuy and Cathy Carroll, typists; Merry Johansen and Harriet Greenspan, special education teachers, and Richard Kelly, school psychologist for special education.

The next regular meeting of the board will be June 24.

Nixon at West Point Saturday

WEST POINT
President Nixon will be attending the noon ceremonies at West Point Saturday to address the Corps of Cadets in his first visit to this Hudson Valley area.

The White House announcement Thursday said the President will be flying to Stewart Airport, Newburgh on board Air Force One from Andrews Air Force Base, Md. In preparation for the visit Secret Service men have been in the area since

Wednesday night to make security arrangements, it was reported.

The White House announcement noted that the President will not be accompanied by the First Lady on this visit, and will later depart for Camp David, a presidential retreat in Maryland, where he will spend the Memorial weekend.

The President will be transported from Stewart to West Point by helicopter, where he will address the 3,800 cadets.

The subject was not divulged. The post will be open to the public, a spokesman at West Point said. However he noted parking is expected to be difficult.

After the address a reception is planned for the President at the home of Maj. Gen. William A. Knowlton, superintendent of the Academy.

Baby Lenore's Future Still Entangled

NEW YORK (UPI)—The mystery of the whereabouts of "Baby Lenore" has been solved but the future of the child, the adopted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas DeMartino, remains entangled in an unusual legal maze.

Jacob D. Fuchsberg, attorney for the Brooklyn couple, read a statement Thursday saying the DeMartinos had taken up residence in Miami, Fla., thus ostensibly removing them from the jurisdiction of New York State courts.

The State Supreme Court has ordered the DeMartinos to return the one-year-old child to her natural, unwed mother, Olga Scarpetta, who had placed the baby with an adoption agency but shortly afterward changed her mind. The transition was to be made in easy stages.

Hours after Fuchsberg announced that the DeMartinos had been living in Florida for at least a month, a judge sentenced the couple to a 30-day jail term for failure to surrender custody of the child.

The sentence is applicable if the DeMartinos are found anywhere in New York State.

Fuchsberg said no crime had been committed as far as he could determine. He said if Miss Scarpetta wishes to pursue the case further "she will have to do it through the courts in Florida where the interests of all parties will be heard."

This was a reference to the exclusion of the adoptive parents from hearings in New York courts. Only the position of the natural mother, who claimed she had changed her mind about the adoption, was heard.

This was because Miss Scarpetta had handed her baby over to the adoption agency four days after it was born but changed her mind long before the six-month period necessary before any adoption can be final in New York State.

Fuchsberg, reading a statement from the DeMartinos, said: "For the first time, all sides can be heard, including ourselves. That's all we ever wanted."

Dramatic Mutiny by Democrats As Lawmakers Take Holiday Hiatus

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The legislature was embarked today on a long holiday weekend, departing the capital after a dramatic mutiny by Democrats against the rule of Gov. Rockefeller and the Republican legislative majority.

Rockefeller and his GOP colleagues chose Thursday's meeting to ram through the tired and irritable legislature a pair of bills that inspired Democrats in the Assembly to declare that they had had enough.

The measures would revise unemployment insurance rates paid by business concerns in the state and revamp the Taylor Law so that public employees would be unable to paid their pensions with overtime pay.

Both bills were passed by the Senate and Assembly, but not before Democrats registered their protest in an apparently unprecedented fashion—at least in the Assembly. The entire Democratic minority abstained from voting.

"You are violating our constitutional rights," declared Minority Leader Stanley Steingut, complaining because the bills had not been on the legislators' desks the customary three days.

But Speaker Perry B. Duryea overrode the Democrats during the chaotic meeting, ruling that every abstention would be recorded as a "no" vote. In the Senate, Democrats elected to register their objections by voting no.

Republicans had enough voting muscle, however, to enforce their will, and both measures were sent to the governor's desk for certain approval—since he had engineered the action.

The two houses—having met for 11 straight days—then recessed until Wednesday afternoon, at which time they will resume their drive for final ad-journalment of the 1971 session. Their goal is to ring down the curtain on Saturday, June 5.

Meanwhile, the GOP high command sought to break through the major barrier to adjournment by working out an agreement on new taxing powers for financially distressed New York City.

Rockefeller told a few reporters that the Republican leadership would recommend a $450-million financial package for the city, although he would not discuss details.

Shortly after his disclosure, Duryea cast cold water on the governor's statement, declaring through a spokesman, "There's no such agreement on my part."

In New York, a spokesman for Mayor John V. Lindsay called the proposals "unacceptable."

There had been reports that Rockefeller would recommend a $130 million increase in New York City's real estate taxes. Duryea told a reporter that he had serious doubts about the advisability of such a move, because the city already is taxing New York revised its rate table. New York employers would be required to pay a total of about $100 million in additional taxes New York industry to offset an next year.

Rockefeller and Duryea... Difference of Opinion on Taxes

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller finally has disclosed what he believes will be the amount of new taxes the legislature will grant New York City for next year, but Assembly Speaker Perry B. Duryea contends that no decision has been reached.

The difference of opinion surfaced Thursday after Rockefeller told newsmen during an impromptu news conference in a Capitol corridor that the Republican legislative leadership would recommend a $450 million tax package for New York City.

Duryea immediately dissipated the figure, declaring through a spokesman: "There's no such agreement on my part."

Rockefeller's disclosure came after days of speculation and rumor of what the gubernatorial view of the tax package would be. Duryea's view is yet to be revealed.

In New York, a spokesman for Mayor John V. Lindsay said a $450 - million tax package would be "unacceptable" and repeated that any amount markedly less than the $892.4 million he asked the legislature to approve would mean mass layoffs of city workers.

The governor declined to specify what taxing powers would be granted in the $450 million. Lindsay has proposed a $9.1-billion expense budget for 1971-72, with a tax package intended to bridge what the mayor contends is a deficit of $1.1 billion.

Rockefeller, Duryea and Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges maintain that the budget gap is closer to $700 million because of alleged city overestimates of spending, including higher welfare expenditures than called for under state law, and underestimates of revenues.

There have been reports that Rockefeller has been considering legislation that would permit New York City to raise real estate taxes by $130 million as an additional source of revenue. The governor declined to comment on the report.

However, Duryea expressed reservations about a possible real estate tax. He said such a measure was of dubious constitutionality since the city is now taxing property at the legal limit.

A legislative source said the $450 million tax figure mentioned by the governor represented the amount now most discussed by the GOP leadership at the Capitol but did not appear to be the amount the legislature would finally approve.

Rockefeller himself said the amount of specific new taxes was "still up in the air" although the scope of the tax package had been reached, and would depend on what taxes legislators would agree to.

Legislative sources had previously indicated that the tax package would eventually be between $300 million and $400 million. This was still the case Thursday, the sources said.

The governor and GOP legislative leaders reportedly have agreed that the city budget gap can be bridged with a promise of $150 million in additional federal aid, a $200 million reduction in city spending and acceptance by the city of the state view of the size of the deficit.

Residents of Village on Sicilian Island Keep Mafia Chiefs, Policemen Isolated

FILICUDI, Sicily (AP) — The islanders of Filicudi manned the barricades through the night, and 18 exiled Mafia chiefs and their 80 police escorts had to sleep on chairs, tables and the floor.

It was the third all-night vigil for the 200 residents barring the underworld figures from the only village on the little island off the north coast of Sicily. The islanders want the Mafia taken away because they fear their presence will hurt Filicudi's profitable tourist trade.

The Italian government decided to move known Mafia leaders to isolated islands—where they could be kept under constant surveillance—after the killing of the public prosecutor in Palermo, the Sicilian capital. Seventeen members of one gang were taken to Linosa, south of Sicily; the islanders grumbled but put up no active resistance.

Not so the Filicudians. They waited up Tuesday night, and when the Mafia were landed Wednesday, the locals scuffled with the police. They couldn't prevent the landing, but they kept the police boats from unloading cots and food for the unwelcome guests.

Since then the Mafia chiefs and their guards have been staying in an isolated seaside cafe and a hotel under construction, with no beds, no blankets and little food. Two policemen who had not eaten for two days fell ill Thursday from hunger and exhaustion.

One was flown by helicopter to a hospital in Sicily.

A score of persons from the nearby islands of Lipari and Stromboli came over to bolster the Filicudians. In another show of solidarity, stores and a small factory on Lipari closed for the day Thursday, and Lipari's town council appealed to President Giuseppe Saragat to end Filicudi's designation as an open air prison.

Filicudi was a prison island as early as the 16th century under the kings of Naples. A law dating from Mussolini's era includes it on a list of islands where undesirables can be sent for confinement, and Filicudi was host to many during the Fascist years. But none had been confined here since the war until this week.

"Our future rests with tourism," said Stefano Ferlazzo at one of the barricades. "Many who had booked rooms in our houses for the summer have already phoned they are no longer coming."

"The state has never helped us to a better living," added Stefano Zegame. "Now it wants to take away from us even what we could earn from tourists."

The island, a paradise for underwater fishing, has no electric power and no water. It has one telephone, and drinking water is brought in by tanker.

"We have been known around as the 'children of convicts' for centuries," said Tommaso Ferlazzo. "We want no one to start calling us the children of Mafia."

School Outing Ends in Disaster, 47 Killed as Trains Collide

RADEVORMWALD, Germany (UPI) — An express freight hurtled headon into a train carrying 100 children back from a school outing Thursday night in West Germany's worst rail disaster.

A police spokesman said 47 persons were killed, including 41 children, and 25 others were injured, many seriously.

The accident occurred on a single track when the children, who had been on a day excursion to the North Sea port of Bremen, were little more than 15 minutes away from the parents waiting for them at Radevormwald Station.

The 63-ton diesel locomotive hauling the freight smashed into the two-car diesel unit carrying the children, crushing the first passenger car.

There were no Americans on any other non-Germans aboard, officials said. The train had been chartered especially for the school excursion and only teachers, pupils and train crewmen were aboard.

A clerk at Radevormwald Town Hall, who asked not to be identified, said she followed other people attracted by the sirens of police cars, fire engines and ambulances speeding to the scene, about two miles from the town.

"What I saw was terrible," she said. "The first of the rail cars was crushed so much that I felt I could have held it within the width of my arms."

"We saw parts of bodies scattered all over the terrible scene and the injured children were screaming. Many of the children were thrown through the windows of the second rail car and were lying there."

The injured children were rushed to nearby hospitals and the dead were laid out in rows of coffins inside a gymnasium at Radevormwald.

Grief-stricken parents, many sobbing uncontrollably after identifying their children among the dead, stood in groups among the coffins.

On a nearby blackboard an official chalked the names of the dead and injured as they were identified.

The accident was the worst railway disaster since the state of Germany was created in '49. The public prosecutor at Radevormwald, responsible for investigating such accidents in his district, said the crash "apparently stemmed from human error." A railways spokesman said the accident did not result from a mechanical failure on either train.

He said the engineer of the freight, who survived the crash without serious injury, was being questioned along with the signalman responsible for the stretch of single line track.

"One of them must be responsible," he said. "But we cannot yet say which of them it was."

A police spokesman said many of the parents were waiting at Radevormwald Station to greet their children when the freight locomotive, pulling five cars, rolled through the station just about 9:00 p.m.

"A railway employee tried to wave the train down because he knew an accident had to happen with the other train so near and approaching on the same track," the spokesman said.

"The parents either knew or sensed it, too."

"But the train did not stop."

Angela Davis Case Gets Underway, Despite Tantrum by Co-Defendant

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (UPI) — After three months of delays, the Angela Davis case finally got going Thursday—despite a kicking and spitting tantrum by co-defendant Russell Magee.

Magee, who had repeatedly delayed pretrial proceedings by demanding removal of judges and challenging his own lawyers, kicked and spat on his court-appointed attorney and called the new judge "a Ku Klux Klan man in disguise."

Superior Court Judge Richard E. Arnason eventually ordered the 32-year-old San Quentin convict, who faces a mandatory death sentence if found guilty, removed in chains to a cell near the courtroom.

The judge then heard arguments on a motion to dismiss the indictment against Miss Davis, 27, an avowed Communist and former UCLA instructor charged, like Magee, with murder, kidnaping and conspiracy.

Arnason took the motion under submission and scheduled another hearing on pretrial requests by both prosecution and defense for Wednesday.

Magee launched into a tirade against Arnason and all the lawyers after the judge refused to recess the hearing. The convict wanted a delay to appeal an Appellate Court justice's rejection of his effort to disqualify Arnason as biased.

The convict, whose hands were shackled to his waist and who was chained to his chair, raised his shackled feet and kicked attorney Ernest W. Graves so hard the lawyer fell to the floor. Later in the proceedings, Magee spat in Graves' face.

Miss Davis and Magee were indicted by the Marin County Grand Jury in connection with the courtroom shootout last Aug. 7 in which four men, including a judge, were killed.

The prosecution and defense presented capsule summaries of their cases during an afternoon of argument on the motion to dismiss all charges.

Albert W. Harris Jr., a deputy state attorney general assigned as special prosecutor, said that under California law Miss Davis, who was not at the scene of the shootout, was equally responsible if she aided another in the crime.

"The people's case has four legs to it," said Harris. "One, that she furnished the weapons; two, that she participated in planning and preparations; three, that she shared the proceeds, which was to free George Jackson and the other 'Solead Brothers' by any means, and four, that she fled

Three Arrested In Middletown Transfer Strife

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y. (AP)—Three persons arrested in a protest over the transfer of patients from Middletown State Hospital pleaded guilty Friday to reduced charges of disorderly conduct.

They are Phillip Del Pizzo, 43; Miss Cathie Vandemark, 21, both of Middletown and Richard Moran, 24, of nearby Cuddebackville.

Sentencing was set for June 8.

A fourth person charged in the incident, Robert C. Guild, 39, of Albany, was scheduled to enter a plea on June 8.

Guild, a collective bargaining specialist for the Civil Service Employees Association, and Del Pizzo, president of the local CSEA chapter had been charged with obstructing government administration. Miss Vandemark and Moran, both psychiatric aides, had also originally been charged with obstructing government administration.

All are free on $250 bail.

The arrests were made during a protest May 11 against the transfer of patients to another hospital because of employee layoffs at the Middletown facility. The layoffs resulted from reductions in the state budget.

Pot Hoard Destroyed

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Two million pills, 3,000 kilos of marijuana, and a quantity of heroin were destroyed Thursday by state narcotics agents.

Attorney General Evelle J. Younger said the drugs, valued at more than $1 million, were burned at an undisclosed site. The drugs had been confiscated by police agencies during the past several months.

Poughkeepsie to Fire 103 on School Staff

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y. (UPI)—The Board of Education announced Thursday night they would fire 103 professional staff members in the city's school system, because of a lack of funds.

The figure includes 79 of the some 300 teachers in this Hudson Valley city of 38,500 people.

The board made the announcement following its third meeting in 10 days on its budget crisis.

The board said it would cut out summer school, pre-kindergarten and interscholastic sports as a result of the fiscal cutback. Music and art courses will be pared sharply.

The school system needs more than $800,000 to reach its proposed $8.1 million budget for the coming year, the board said, noting that it has asked the city to raise its sales tax from 2 per cent to 3 per cent; increase amusement machine taxes; lift liquor taxes, and establish a tax on commercial and private autos in the city to raise the money.

It has already gained permission to charge 4 per cent interest on installment payments of school taxes and will hold a public hearing on a proposal to establish a utility tax.

Saugerties Voters Can Abolish PJ Post

ALBANY
The last township police justice position in the State of New York may be abolished by public referendum.

Legislation has passed both the Assembly and the Senate and is expected to be signed by the Governor which would call for a public referendum on eliminating the position of police justice in the Town of Saugerties in Ulster County.

The referendum would be in the November general election. Assemblyman H. Clark Bell (R-Woodstock), sponsor of the measure, explained that the position of police justice has been eliminated in all townships in the state except that position in Saugerties. The bill would seek the referendum to repeal a provision of the Laws of 1861 which established the police justice position in the Town of Saugerties with criminal jurisdiction only.

Assemblyman Bell said: "The need for this position is no longer present. The case load is being effectively handled by the two other positions of justice in the town."

He continued: "In these times of economic strife and purse-tightening in government as well as the private sector, it is good to be able to present to the people a chance to vote a savings of a minimum of $3,500 a year by the elimination of this unnecessary position. I hope people will take advantage of this opportunity and vote in the November referendum."

The late Ernest E. Schimer was the last to hold the police justice post. Town Justices of Saugerties are Calvin H. Cody and Michael A. Catalinotto.

Kiwanis Club Hears About Russia Today

KINGSTON
Speaking on the subject "Will the Soviet Union Bury Us," Morris Brafman of New York City underscored the ideas that in the Soviet Union "the small take-it-for-granted things are not available" and a person "is frozen to his job and community."

Brafman spoke at the weekly meeting of the Kingston Kiwanis Club and was introduced by Chester A. Baltz, a business associate of the speaker's "for the past 20 years."

"A million Jews in the Soviet Union want out," said the speaker, "yet they are the grandchildren of people who 40 years ago advocated a Socialist state." This era of thinking was prevalent prior to the coming of Hitler and Stalin, Brafman said, and the change in thought by the current generation "indicates that things are not so rosy in the paradise called the Soviet Union."

Brafman pointed to the lack of free assembly and free communications, the necessity to fill out forms for permission to do ordinary things; the continual spying upon people and the notion that the assemblage of more than two persons indicates a "plot," and the "complete lack of freedom," as reasons why the Jews in Russia "have had it and want out."

His admiration for this country's individual ideals and progress, the competitive spirit of individuals and small groups, and the promotion of creative thoughts were given by Brafman as reasons why he was proud of his adopted country. (He fled from Austria in the Hitler era.)

Brafman, who has championed the Jewish cause in the Soviet Union and leads several organizations whose main purpose is to aid the Jewish residents of Russia, spoke of the persons in this country who "represent the New Left." He suggested that these same persons "take a trip to Russia, Cuba, or China and this will cure them of their ideas of the New Left in this country."

Gardiner Ballot To Have Variety Of Questions

GARDINER
The Town of Gardiner is using the occasion of their referendum on the question of elected or appointed assessors to poll the opinion of the townspeople on a number of issues.

According to Town Supervisor George Majestic, in addition to the line on the assessors the June 8 ballot will contain questions on a dog ordinance, a town curfew, and the jetport. It may also have a line for a building code, but Majestic said this was not yet determined.

The regular Town Board meeting will be held June 1, and Majestic said he has asked Woodstock Town Supervisor Milton Hout, Shawangunk Supervisor M. J. Oscar "Moe" Smith, and Walter Schulman of the Woodstock Taxpayer's Association ("who had so much to say at the Woodstock meeting where I wasn't allowed to speak," said Majestic) to debate with him on the subject of elected versus appointed assessors.

The Town Board will also hold a meeting Memorial Day to discuss the jetport, Majestic said.

Businessmen Of Esopus Hear County CC Plan

Cane also showed a film strip dealing with Ulster County businesses and conducted a question and answer period after the program.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, MAY 28, 1971

Burns Incomes' Policy

The chairman of the Federal Reserve Board gave his prescription for revival of the economy to a Senate Banking Committee hearing and it was not palatable for President Nixon, who appointed him.

With the United States balance of payments deficit driving the dollar down in value on world money markets, because speculators sought higher interest rates in Europe, Arthur F. Burns persisted that raising U. S. interest rates would not be a feasible method of stemming the flood of dollars to Europe. He added that the role of monetary policy as a domestic stabilization tool should be curtailed somewhat.

While the United States has been criticized for depending on monetary ease the last year, Burns said there are grounds to criticize Europe for relying excessively on monetary stringency. He felt that both the United States and other nations can work together to reduce divergences in monetary policies and thereby limit short-term movements of fund and payment imbalances.

Specifically, Burns outlined these measures to improve the international position of the dollar: A cogent incomes' policy as a necessary part of the efforts to restore price stability, in other words wage and price controls, which are opposed by Mr. Nixon. Maintenance of restraints on private capital outflow until a better price performance makes it possible for us to rebuild a healthy trade surplus. Convincing other nations to drop restrictions on U. S. imports and investments abroad by their citizens. And adopting measures to offset effects of short-term flows, such as issuing government securities to absorb Eurodollars and providing improved investment outlets in the United States for foreign central bank reserves.

This is strong medicine, not likely to be accepted by Mr. Nixon, especially the incomes' policy. Without it, all efforts to reduce inflation have failed so far. With it at least wages and prices, the keys to inflation, would be brought under control. Congress has given the President the power. His failure to use it completely is becoming almost indefensible.

Drought Hurts Food Supply

A prolonged lack of rainfall is curtailing by 50 per cent the harvest of salad vegetables and squash in Florida. Oklahoma and Texas were also hit hard by the drought and other southern and western crops suffered as well. In fact, the only normal harvests are in irrigated areas.

Like sequences in TV westerns, there are reports from ranchers that the water holes in some places are drying up and the ranches are running out of feed for cattle. Some herds have even lost a few of their count. The Agriculture Department has made $160,000 available to Florida cattlemen to help drill new wells and move their livestock — but massive assistance is going to be needed in critical regions.

There are many jokes about rainmakers and rain dances, but it's not so funny when your winter wheat crop is only one-sixth what it was last year, as it is in the Southwest now. Oklahoma has a third less, and the west-central region is down by a little more than half. Texas will only have three-fifths its normal crop.

Higher retail prices can be expected on vegetables, meat and cereals. Instead of a run on these commodities, consumers and growers in the more fortunate parts of the country should see what they can do to alleviate the shortage. More and bigger gardens should be planted in towns, suburbs, acreages; more cattle, sheep, and pigs raised by small farmers. And farmers would do better to plant than to accept government checks for non-planting. The time has come to cooperate with the Almighty when He holds back, and when He gives.

Not as Our 'Indians' Do

In a letter to Volunteer, the magazine of the Peace Corps, former volunteer Ella Doran recalls that when she was sent to Bolivia in 1964, she and other corpsmen were instructed to try to motivate and educate the Indians to do the following things:

To wear shoes or sandals so they wouldn't get worms. To cut down on their chewing of cacao leaves because it dulled their initiative.

To be sanitary in order to eliminate disease. To learn better nutrition.

To respect other people's property so that there would be no need for vicious dogs, adobe walls with broken glass encrusted on top, etc.

Three years after her Peace Corps service she became a resident director in a girl's dormitory at Kent State University and encountered educated students in a highly civilized country who do the following:

Go barefoot everywhere but to class.

Smoke pot.

Throw garbage out the windows.

Eat mostly hamburgers, pizzas and French fries.

Steal university property and from each other without any real personal need.

"My question is," she writes, "Can we tell other people in other countries, 'Do what I tell you, not what I do?'"

"Don't You Know a Good Thing When You've Got It?"

David Lawrence Says Hostile Attitude Between Races Is Grave Problem

WASHINGTON — Scarcely a day goes by that the American people are not told in their newspapers about one or more outbreaks of violence. Often widespread fighting develops between blacks and whites, resulting in the deaths of some citizens and injuries to others, as well as property damage. In many instances, the police are at hand and make arrests, and frequently National Guard forces are brought to the scene.

What is America going to do about this problem, whose gravity is challenging the people? The mere process of seeking out the ones who are guilty and subjecting them to punishment apparently isn't proving to be a preventive. What obviously is emerging is a conflict between whites and blacks which is not being dispelled by integration of schools or by the increased opening up of opportunities for blacks to get jobs which may previously have been denied them. A deeper resentment is involved. The trouble arises when individuals, who may be under the influence of drugs or alcohol, give vent to their feelings and provoke all kinds of incidents which lead to guerrilla-type warfare.

The hostile attitude between the races has appeared not only in business and private life but in the armed services. On Monday of this week, fights between black and white airmen spread over Travis Air Force Base in California culminating in a four-hour brawl. More than 400 servicemen were involved. A 40,000-dollar fire at the officers' quarters resulted in one death. Ten airmen were taken to the medical center with injuries. Armed civilian police from nearby communities entered the base in large numbers to help deal with the situation. There were 135 arrests. It was admitted afterwards that the fighting had started with a racial incident at dinner on Saturday night, but later spread indiscriminately. A group of 35 to 75 black servicemen marched on the post stockade to try to get two black airmen freed.

There are more and more reports of troubles inside the military services between blacks and whites. This illustrates the extent to which emotions over racial problems have grown everywhere. Certainly it is time for greater thought and attention to be given to sources or racial friction. What is most urgently needed at the moment is the development of means to curb the outbursts of resentment which have become pronounced in the last few years and now are showing signs of becoming the biggest of the unsolved problems in America.

Communities have been worried by the rise of racial incidents, but additional police protection has been the major policy thus far applied to try to maintain peace and order. Meanwhile, the undercurrent of bitterness remains in many areas, and racial feeling is intensified.

Relations between blacks and whites will never be improved until individuals have been taught to understand their responsibilities to the community. Organizations will have to be formed, perhaps through the churches, to reach the minds

Jack Anderson Says HEW Bureau Spends Millions Without Bids, Often Illegally

WASHINGTON — The Pentagon is now getting competition from the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare for the dubious distinction of being the government's champion spendthrift.

The latest evidence of this is a confidential, 48-page report on purchasing practices in the Social and Rehabilitation Service, the HEW bureau responsible for such vast programs as welfare and Medicaid.

The Study, prepared by a team of HEW investigators, covers a period of just over a year in which more than $18 million in contracts were awarded to private firms by the bureau.

"Almost one half of SRS's procurements still are placed on a noncompetitive basis," the investigators found. Furthermore, they concluded that more than a third of the justifications offered for making the awards without bids were "inadequate."

Most federal contracts up for grabs must be advertised in the Commerce Business Daily but the report says that "60 per cent of the contracts reviewed, which required publication, were not published by the Commerce Business Daily." Failure to do so is illegal.

Federal procurement regulations require that contracts which are not awarded by bid must be negotiated with the contractor after formal proposals are obtained from as many eligible companies as possible.

The investigation disclosed, however, that "SRS neglects to issue formal requests for proposals on noncompetitive procurements. . . . Contract files contained no evidence that any meaningful negotiations were conducted."

And once the contracts are awarded, they are supposed to be strictly supervised. However, the report says: "Postaward administration of contracts is inadequate and limited to processing and payment of contractor's invoices and vouchers."

The investigators discovered one case where a contract was awarded to a consulting firm although its proposal was nearly $100,000 more than that of another firm which was qualified to do the work.

"There is nothing in the file to justify the selection, the report concludes.

Note: This document is only one of several which we have obtained dealing with slipshod, even illegal purchasing practices in HEW. We earlier reported on two confidential studies which showed widespread abuses throughout the department with the Office of Education being the chief offender.

Government Snooping. Sen. Sam Ervin's investigation into government snooping has produced some disturbing facts.

His latest discovery is that the Defense Department alone has accumulated 25 million life histories in the course of its security investigations. These are loaded with derogatory comments whispered into ears of eager gumshoes.

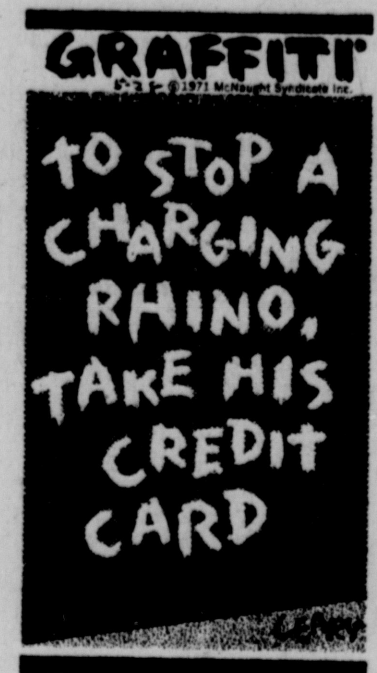

The Civil Service Commission keeps in its files several more million dossiers on people who have filed for federal jobs. Even the Federal Housing Administration receives confidential reports on the marital stability of prospective home buyers.

For reasons never explained, the State Department's passport office keeps a special report of passport applicants who have been married more than twice. The General Services Administration maintains a blacklist of businessmen who are considered poor risks.

And of course, the FBI is constantly checking into the backgrounds of persons for one reason or another. It has in its files an estimated 180 million fingerprints, not to mention dossiers on tens of thousands of suspected security risks and crooks. It's no secret that the FBI keeps files on controversial figures suspected of nothing more incriminating than speaking their own mind.

All the dirt that government gumshoes pick up on people is swept into dossiers which are freely exchanged between federal offices. This gives an alarming number of government employees access to derogatory information about fellow citizens.

Ervin is so concerned about the increased use of social security numbers which could become the common key to link all the promiscuous, inaccurate and incomplete information about nearly all Americans.

'72 Losers Paw Paths of Gold

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA) — For the Democratic party, 1971 is unique. Never before have so many presidential candidates with so little hold on the voters been able to get so much early money for traveling and organizing on an ambitious scale.

Sen. Birch Bayh shows a bare one per cent Democratic support in a national poll, yet he has the biggest political staff of all, travels widely, sends roses and throws champagne breakfasts. He won't say, but the could be spending upwards of $750,000 this year.

Iowa's Sen. Harold Hughes, another member of the one per cent club, doesn't travel as often as young Mr. Roller Skates from Indiana. But he does get about, and he's enlarging his political operation.

Hawkish Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington isn't taken too seriously as a prospect, except maybe in the South and in limited northern quarters. That doesn't seem to prevent him from moving around constantly. He has had five visits cross-country to California. The senator is riding on a fat two per cent poll showing.

With his five per cent and his declared candidacy, Sen. George McGovern is a little more plausible. It's still remarkable, though, that he can find the money to fuel his very high-paced 1971 effort.

Now, it doesn't violate objectivity to say most of these men are bound to be losers in 1972. Indeed, most won't get very far at all. So, how come some Democratic money types are financing a bunch of losers in such high style?

A high proportion of these angels can be found among New York and California liberals. They want candidates with a strong commitment against the Vietnam war. They want men who will knock wire-tapping and call, every hour on the hour, for the firing of J. Edgar Hoover.

McGovern gets those who like him. "I was first against the war," he also runs daily against J. Edgar, the fat cats who want the deep voice look to Harold Hughes, who has the organ tones, the big chest measurements — for a commanding presidential figure, and a little of the whiff of a believable dark horse about him.

As the junior dragon who slew the Supreme Court nomination of southerners, G. Harold Carswell and Clement Haynsworth, Birch Bayh of Indiana makes it with people who are grateful or who like his gymnasium energy.

Given the free-wheeling nature of the Democratic party, it is wholly predictable that the restless Left should be casting about for someone other than either Old Face Hubert Humphrey or Old Face's 1968 running mate.

Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine.

And, certainly, at least one of the low percentile candidates is going to be backed all the way into the Democratic convention next July. The vigorous Left is never without a horse.

Nevertheless, the party faces the serious question whether liberals' financial indulgence in the present variety of choices is not a luxury which Democrats challenging President Nixon in 1972 can ill afford.

Everybody has heard by now that it is going to cost an individual candidate at least $10 million to $12 million to campaign full-scale up through the nominating convention. To get the nominee to voting day in November may take two or three times that much.

The money wells being tapped today are not ever-flowing. Some of them could run dry next year just when the Democrats need them most. And with the party still necktied by a $9.3 million debt from 1968, its credit wouldn't buy lunchtime hamburgers for a campaign staff.

The Democrats' long spring-training roster of candidates surely support reformers' hopes for open-party competition. Trouble is, it's so open the money is running out at both ends. The unprecedented outlays for losers by fat cats in fantasy land are simply unbelievable.

Is Egypt Getting Soviet Aid 'Bill'?

By RAY CORMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA) — There seems to be mounting evidence a pro-Soviet group had infiltrated key posts in Anwar Sadat's Egyptian government and was getting ready for a take-over.

If this proves so, Sadat is now learning the lesson Yugoslavia's Tito and China's Mao were taught years ago: That when a nation accepts Soviet help, Moscow attempts to infiltrate, take over the government, even friendly Communists regimes.

Russia's fight with Yugoslavia was not over communism, however many party slogans were shouted. Belgrade was and is Communist. The fight was over whether Yugoslavia would be a Soviet economic colony. Moscow's fight with Mao Tse-tung was not over communism, though there has been a turgid flow of steaming accusations. The battle was over whether Red China would obediently follow Soviet national foreign policies in Southeast Asia.

Russia's fight with Hungary, East Germany, Czechoslovakia, Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia were not over Communist ideology. They were over whether Russia would have control over the economic, military and foreign policies of these countries as they affected Russian national interests.

That is, we are not now talking about Russian communism. We are talking about Russian imperialism, which has nothing to do with ideology.

Communism has become simply a device by which the Soviet Union can get Egyptians, Chinese or other foreign peoples to work for Soviet national interest.

How do you get a man to put a foreign country's aims before those of his own nation, unless you convince him there is a higher ideology? Communist slogans fit this purpose for Russia so long as communism's goals are identified with Moscow's goals, and Russia is identified as the "mother" country.

When a brand of communism develops which does not put Russian interests first, as in Yugoslavia, it is branded as deviationism, regardless of ideological purity.

Study Moscow's moves carefully over the past three decades. International communism was pushed when it served Russia's national purposes. Communist governments were backed and Communist parties aided, when this served Russian needs. But when Communists parties were not useful to Russian national interests, they were disavowed or ignored—even when their local leaders looked to Moscow as Mecca.

Training for Homemakers

The Ulster County Homemaker Service, which began operations last October, is now training its second class of homemakers. The homemakers, mature, capable women who have had practical experience in home management, are receiving special training before being placed in homes throughout Ulster County. The training course covers such areas as accident prevention and safety in the home; care and management of the home; nutrition; understanding children, the elderly and mental illness. Professional people, who are experts in these various fields, are addressing the trainees. Once these women have completed their course they will be available for placement throughout the county at the rate of $2.25 an hour in homes where some crisis or temporary emergency exists. In the mobile society of today families are often separated from relatives who would help out in instances of illness or accident. If grandparents are half a continent away they cannot readily step in and care for children when a young mother is hospitalized for a new baby or a more serious illness or disability. Likewise, the elderly are frequently far from their grown children and the senior citizen, not yet ready for institutional care, needs someone to shop, prepare a nutritious meal and do light housekeeping chores. In both of these instances a homemaker could go in and fill the need and thereby maintain the home and family life. The alternatives—foster care for the young or nursing home care for the elderly—are costly and even more costly in terms of their disruptive impact.

Before placing a homemaker in a home the agency requires a referral from a doctor, clergyman or social agency to establish the need. The homemaker is not a babysitter and she does not do nursing or heavy domestic work.

Fagan-Cegelka Nuptials

St. Joseph's Church, Kingston, was the setting for the concelebrated nuptial Mass for Miss Kathleen Mary Fagan and Michael Eric Cegelka on Saturday, May 15 at 12 o'clock.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. Fagan of Kingston. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Joseph Cegelka of Red Hook and the late Joseph Cegelka.

Celebrants of the Mass were Chaplain (Major) Walter G. Fagan, U.S. Army, Fort Richardson, Alaska, uncle of the bride; and the Rev. Thomas H. Kay, pastor of St. Henry's Church, Averill Park, cousin of the bride. James Sweeney, organist, and soloist Robert Charlesworth provided traditional wedding music. The altars were decorated with arrangements of spring flowers.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of kitten-ear satin and chantilly lace styled with a high cuff neckline, lace sleeves, front lace panel and detachable train. The gown, designed by the bride, was made by the bridegroom's aunt, Mrs. Michael McTague, who is well known for her restoration of altar vestments. The veil, a double tier of English illusion, was made by the bride's mother, a millinery designer formerly associated with Lilly Dache. The bride carried a hand bouquet of yellow roses, stephanotis and baby's breath. Maureen Fagan, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a gown of white polyester voile and maize accented with velvety flowers. The sleeves were short and puffed and the neckline and skirt featured ruffles of self fabric. She wore a crown of fresh white and yellow daisies in her hair with accents of blue cornflowers and carried a colonial nosegay of yellow and white daisies, cornflowers and yellow streamers.

Attendants were Aline Wooten of Kingston; Theresa Kuhn of Fishkill, cousin of the bride. Their gowns were identical to that worn by the honor attendants. In their hair they wore crowns of yellow and white daisies and carried colonial nosegays of the same flowers.

Robert Guedner of Germantown was best man. Ushering were Ross Andersen of Westerlo, cousin of the bridegroom; Kenneth Keppel of Maybrook, cousin of the bride.

A reception was given in Alpine Lodge.

The bride, a graduate of Kingston High School, is a candidate for graduation in June from Ulster County Community College. She will receive an Associate of Science Degree in Community Service. She is employed at the St. Cabrini Home in West Park.

The bridegroom, an alumnus of Red Hook Central High School, attended Dutchess Community College and is now employed by Garrison Foreign Cars Inc., Kingston. For her wedding trip to Maryland and Virginia Beach, the bride chose to wear a peach double knit pantsuit with matching cape.

MRS. MICHAEL E. CEGELKA

(Lakeside Studio)

Mr. and Mrs. Cegelka will reside in Red Hook when they return.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Folks:

A while back one of our men folk (God bless each and every one of 'em) wrote and asked me to test Vienna sausage by using his method. I found it scrumptiliouslyumptious.

Put a can of Vienna sausage in your refrigerator and leave it there a few days. Even weeks or months won't hurt. The juice will congeal and make a solid.

When you open the can, open BOTH ends and push the whole caboodle out. Instead of separate little sausages they will come out in one bunch like they are welded together! It will look like a flower. Believe it.

Using your sharpest knife, cut crosswise, as thin or as thick as you want 'em.

These little flowers are great to top a bowl of potato salad, lay atop scrambled eggs, when sprinkled with paprika — which gives 'em that umph — atop a lettuce salad, or on top of any gelatin salad.

They are darling when having a party and you are having open-faced cold sandwiches. Use your biscuit or cookie cutter and spread the bread with mustard and lay like a cloverleaf with more leaves than four.

The only thing that I must caution you about is that it cannot be heated as the "congealed jelly" that holds them together will melt.

And thanks to all you good fellows who write to help us gals. You seem to have all the short cuts we don't often think about. Keep 'em coming. Just write to me any old time, c/o this paper.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

You know how hard it is to pack brown sugar evenly in a measuring cup? Well, I found a simple solution.

Use your potato masher. Mine is round and fits in the cup perfectly.

Just mash the sugar down once or twice and the job is done quickly and easily.

Mrs. Dale Rogers

Dear Heloise:

Did you ever feel that it's wasteful to saturate a cloth or facial tissue with nail polish remover when cleaning your nails?

Well, don't. Just fill the bottle cap half full of remover, soak one fingernail at a time and wipe away the polish.

Sure is a money saver!

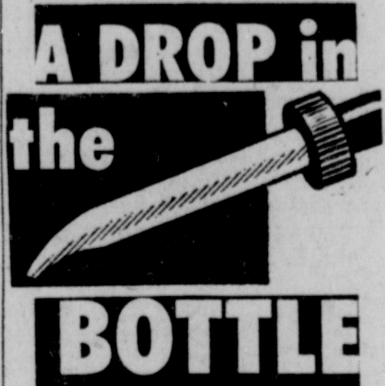

Ruth Nelson

Dear Heloise:

I read your column the very first thing every morning.

I have not only learned a lot but have gotten a lot of laughs too. And that is what this old world needs—more love and more laughter. Keep it coming!

DEAR ABBY: I am a 32-year-old divorcee and the mother of two. I am deeply in love with a 33-year-old man. He is kind and gentle and my children love him and he seems to love them. The problem is that he is not an American citizen and has been in this country for almost two years.

He wants me to marry him in September, and I would like to marry him, but my friends have told me to be careful because he may be marrying me just to become an American citizen. He has told me that he loves me and I believe him, but I don't want to marry him if there is any doubt about his motives. Can you help me?

LOVES HIM: DEAR LOVES HIM: If you love him and you believe that he loves you, don't let the doubts of your friends influence you. Your doubts are the only doubts you need consider.

DEAR ABBY: Do mixed marriages ever work?

DEAR CAL: Yes. But they work better if bigots don't mix in.

DEAR ABBY: Mike's letter telling you he might belt his wife for using his razor to shave her legs made me smile, a little sadly. I used to use my husband's razor, too. And even tho I always carefully washed and dried it, he always knew when I had used it. And he hollered too, because I had my own razor.

I used to slip into my husband's robe and house slippers in the mornings, even tho my own robe and slippers were within easy reach. Why? Because it made me feel close to him. As tho his arms were around me.

Maybe Mike's wife is trying to tell him something? My husband is dead now, but I still remember the warmth of his robe. And the sharpness of his razor. His razor was always so much better than my own.

Invite 60 for Herdegen Memorial Golf

KINGSTON — Invitations have been extended to 60 Ulster county golfers for the 21st annual Herdegen Memorial Golf Tournament which opens Saturday, June 19, at Woodstock Country Club, Tournament Director Charles J. Tiano has announced.

The winner of the 72-hole medal tournament will be recognized as the Ulster County amateur champion.

The tournament opens at Woodstock, with the second round at Wiltwyck Country Club on Sunday, June 20. At the end of 36 holes, the field will be reduced to the low 27 or 30 scores, depending on the final entry.

Sawyerkill Country Club hosts the third round on Saturday, June 26, with the 18-hole final at The Twaalfskill Club on June 27.

The invitation list includes all former Herdegen champions and several club champions. In addition to the regular club members, high school and college players have been invited to compete in the annual classic.

Tournament Director Tiano warned, however, that all in-itations must be confirmed by no later than midnight, June 5. "No entry will be accepted after the June 5 deadline," Tiano said. "The Herdegen committee has decided to reject all late entries."

The tournament director said only players with handicaps of 8 or less were extended invitations.

"However," said Tiano, "college and high school players are placed in another category in line with the Herdegen committee's policy of exposing the more skilled youngsters to the rugged medal competition afforded by the Herdegen tournament."

The tournament is also restricted to players with bona fide Ulster County residency. "Sometimes, this mitigates against some fine collegians," Tiano pointed out, "but we think this is a good rule. The Herdegen Memorial has never been an 'open' tournament in that sense."

Defending champion Leon Randall of Wiltwyck Country Club heads the group of 12 "exempt" players who won prizes in the 1970 tournament. Randall won his eighth Herdegen title with a 72-hole score of 286.

Others in the group are runners-up Harvey Bostic (Wiltwyck) and Bill Odeneal (Lake Mohonk); Ricky Barthel, Ontario High golf coach; Bill Van Aken, Wiltwyck; Bill Kaufman, Sawyerkill Country Club; Harold Van Aken, Wiltwyck.

John Buoymaster of Williams College will represent Woodstock Country Club. Rounding out the exempt field are Werner Kohn of Wiltwyck and team-mate of Dave Blakely at Albany State College; George Cosenza, Wiltwyck, the Saugerties High School coach; Brian Smith of Wiltwyck and George Hughes, perennial Twaalfskill kingpin.

If the cutoff after 36 holes is the low 30 scorers, a total fifteen prizes will be awarded, three more than the standard 12 for the past several years. The 15 winners also become eligible for the 1972 event.

Only seven different players have won the Herdegen Memorial in the past 20 years, with Randall taking the title eight times. The four other champions are Bill Van Aken and Harvey Bostic of Wiltwyck; Hughes and Rick Barthel, who will represent the Rondout Golf, Pool and Tennis Association of Accord.

The final round and awards luncheon will be held at Twaalfskill on Sunday, June 27. "The Herdegen Memorial was established in honor as a memorial to the late Father Henry E. Herdegen of St. Peter's in Kingston," said Tiano. "He was not only an outstanding priest, but a fine golfer and one of the most remarkable orators in the history of the city."

"Finishing at Twaalfskill always gives the Herdegen Memorial a special quality," Tiano concluded.

First Walker Cup Win Since 1938

British Golfers Upset U.S.

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP) — There were no alibis from the United States golfers after losing the Walker Cup to Great Britain for the first time in 33 years.

"We have no excuses," said John Winters, the non-playing captain of the Americans. "It was a great tournament. We enjoyed every minute of it and the best players won."

The British gained their first victory since 1938 in the famed amateur competition by taking six straight singles matches that turned a 10-7 deficit into a 13-1 triumph in the windup of the two-day tourney Thursday. "Hang on to that cup," Winters admonished the British. "In two years we'll be back to get it and you might not see it for another 33 years."

"I always knew this team was deep, sound the able to win," commented British captain Michael Bonallack who was beaten 3-1 by Lanny Wadkins, the U.S. Amateur champion from Richmond, Va.

Bonallack gave special praise to 19-year-old Warren Humphries and 20-year-old Roddy Carr, son of Ireland's famed amateur, Joe Carr.

Their two triumphs highlighted the British comeback after Wadkins' victory over Bonallack had put the Americans ahead 10-7.

Hugh Stewart beat Vinnie Giles of Richmond, Va. 2 and 1, then Humphries shaded Steve Melnyk, Jacksonville, Fla. 2 and 1 and Charlie Green beat Allen Miller, Pensacola, Fla. on the final hole to square things at 10-10.

Roddy Carr then put the British ahead to stay by beating Jim Simons, of Butler, Pa. on the final hole with a 30-foot putt. George MacGregor followed with a 1-up victory over Jim Gabrielsen of Atlanta and David March clinched the Cup by defeating veteran Bill Hyndman of Philadelphia 1 up.

The United States players now will compete in next week's British Amateur Golf Championships at nearby Carnoustie.

Onteora Jolts Paltz; Ellies Thump Monties

BOICEVILLE — New Paltz High School saw its slim chance for the UCAI baseball championship fade away here Thursday as Onteora continued to play spoiler by beating the Hugies, 6-3.

Meanwhile in Ellenville, the home town Blue Devils ripped winless Monticello in the DUSO Village League clash, 9-4.

Onteora, striving to reach .500 for the season, picked up its fourth win against six defeats and sent New Paltz to its fifth loss in 11 games. The Hugies have one more game on the schedule.

After Coach Bill Freer's visitors had posted a second inning run off OCS hurler Dan Brown, the Onteora batters went to work against Rick Pesavento.

Kevin Crosby lined a Pesavento serve for a single to start the rally. Dick Nissen followed with a base hit and Charlie Mazzolla walked to fill the bases. Then the New Paltz pitcher, who is having a rough time in this his junior year than he did when a sparkling sophomore, walked Bruce Hurley to force in a run.

An error on a shot by Brown produced another tally and Lou Gugliametti bopped a single for two more and the Indians were in front, 4-1.

New Paltz cut the gap with two in the sixth, but Onteora iced the win with a pair in the bottom of the frame.

Brown picked up the win, he has all four of OCS' league triumphs. The junior fanned two and walked two, allowing six hits.

It was Pesavento's first loss in the UCAI. Rick struck out two and walked five.

Younger Stars

Two two-run singles by Eddie Younger paced Ellenville to its win over Monticello. The first came in the third with Monticello ahead, 4-2, and helped cap a three run outburst. Another such hit in the fourth enabled the Ellies to pull away.

Kiye Hoar was the winner. Butch Holland took the loss.

Larry Ziegler Needs Encore After Near-Record '62'

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Larry Ziegler needs an encore. But after firing a near record 62 over the par 70 Colonial Country Club course to take the first day lead in the 14th annual Danny Thomas Memphis Classic, he's a tough act to follow.

Ziegler, 31, from Terre Haute, Mo., said the round, which included six birdies and an eagle, was his best since he won the 1969 Michigan classic and the lowest round he has had. He joined the PGA tour in 1966.

It fell a stroke short of the record 61 touring pro Steve Reid fired during the 1969 Memphis Open, which was renamed the Danny Thomas event a year ago.

Ziegler started early and finished the course just after noon.

The remainder of the field seeking the top prize of $35,000 chased him to no avail through an intermittent rain.

Veteran Frank Beard came closest, but rested two strokes back with a six-under par 64. Lee Trevino and Chi Chi Rodriguez were paired at 66, four strokes off the pace, and defending champ Dave Hill, who said he was tired, was back in the pack at 71.

After getting to the clubhouse, the blond Ziegler explained that he only came to Memphis this year "to give this course one more whack."

He said in four previous trips he had been on the road again after two days, after playing poorly and never completing 27 holes.

"I had bad elbows, bad knees, anything you want to think of," he said.

"I've done so poorly in Memphis that I almost missed this year, but I decided to give it one more try, since the course will be torn up after this year," Ziegler said.

Colonial Country Club, scene of the tournament since it began in 1958, is being vacated in its present location, which

Low Eschews Honeymoon For ABA-NBA Classic

HOUSTON (UPI)—Low Alcindor will spend his wedding night playing basketball.

Alcindor, the 7-3 center of the NBA champion Milwaukee Bucks, planned to get married today in Washington and then fly to Houston for the first meeting of the all stars from the National Basketball Association and the American Basketball Association.

The players arranged the game to fatten their pension funds and to help the Whitney Young Foundation and consider it a real test of the relative strengths of the two leagues.

Oscar Robertson, a teammate of Alcindor on the Bucks, revealed Alcindor's hitherto secret wedding in the locker room before the first NBA practice Thursday. Then Robertson said:

"He's giving up his honeymoon. That's how much he thinks of the game."

The game, starting at 7:30 p.m. C.D.T. will be played before a token crowd of about 15,000 in the cavernous Astrodome, but it will be seen by about 20 million over 197 television stations, the largest network for a pro basketball game in prime time in history. The old record was 189 stations.

NBA coach Bill Russell said he was not going to announce his starting lineup until shortly before tipoff, but the best guess was Alcindor, Robertson, one of the game's organizers; Elvin Hayes of San Diego, a former University of Houston star; John Havlicek, whom Russell played with and coached on the Celtics; and Billy Cunningham of the Philadelphia 76ers.

ABA coach Larry Brown said he would start former NBA players Rick Barry of New York and Zelmo Beaty of Utah, along with Willie Wise of Utah, Charlie Scott of Virginia and Larry Jones of Florida.

The ABA reserves are most valuable player Mel Daniels and Roger Brown of Indiana, Don Freeman and Steve Jones of Texas, Bill Melchionni of New York and John Brisker of Pittsburgh.

Russell's bench consists of Carl Monroe of Baltimore, Walt Frazier and Dave DeBusschere of New York, Dave Bing of Detroit, Lou Hudson of Atlanta and Nate Thurmond of San Francisco.

"You don't have to be a genius to coach this team, but I am so I will," Russell said. "I'm gonna tell them only one thing and that is they have to make one pass each during the game. Seriously, I consider this one of the real sincere compliments of my life to coach this team."

Russell, a player or coach on 11 world championship Boston teams, said he was going to play all his players, but he intended to win big if he could.

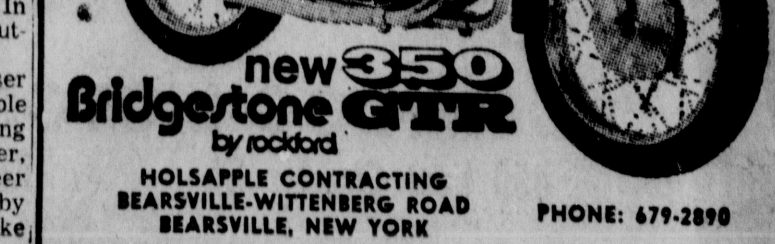

"We're going to beat them as bad as we can out of respect, respect to the ABA," Russell said. "It wouldn't be respectful to beat them only 20 points if we could beat them 50. It would not be fair and they would not appreciate it."

The Ferraro Future: Organization Man

MIKE FERRARO

By IRA FUSFELD

KINGSTON — Mike Ferraro is off to another fast start for the Rochester Red Wings of the International League, but the Kingston product still doesn't see a move to bring him back to the majors in his future.

"I don't even look forward to it," Ferraro, who is home for a few days recovering from bronchitis, said. "There's talk about my becoming an organization man. I just want to stay in baseball."

And with reports coming in praising Mike's work with the younger players on the Rochester club, Red Wing manager Joe Altobelli and new GM Carl Steinfield just might be grooming the 26-year-old infielder for a coaching slot.

"We've got a great team," Mike says of the Rochester aggregation. "We started off real slow and had a bunch of rain-outs—at one point we played two games in nine days—but we're coming on now after winning eight in a row."

It's no wonder either since the Red Wings, chief farm club of the world champion Orioles, are stocked with players good enough to be starters most other places.

Ferraro, IL all-star third baseman for three straight seasons, was hitting .292 when illness sidelined him. His 20 RBIs led the club and he'd cracked five doubles and one homer.

"I'm satisfied with the way I've been going, especially with the tremendous RBI start," Mike hopes to get back in action on Monday night in Rochester.

"I got sick eight or nine days ago in Rochester and they said it was intestinal flu. I didn't play for a few days and when I got to Louisville I was still weak. I came home Wednesday night to see Dr. Schwartz (Herbert F. of Kingston) and he said it was bronchitis. So now I'm home for some sleep and good food and I'll be going back on Sunday."

Ferraro's illness coincided with a decline in the Red Wing fortunes. "We had won eight straight games," he says. "Then I got sick and Bob Grich got called to military service. Winnepeg swept us three straight, but I think we'd all right."

The Winnepeg sweep left Rochester at 15 and 16 1/2 games behind the league lead—Syracuse Chiefs.

Back on the subject of the Rochester club, Ferraro quickly agreed with a statement by International League President George Sisler that five or six of the Red Wings should be in the majors.

"I definitely think so," Mike stated. "Guys like Bobby Grich, Terry Crowley, Rich Groggins, Baylor, Hutto, and Oates are all big league material."

And then there's Mike Ferraro. . . .

STILL THE CHAMP—I'm not the tramp, I'm the champ," said Muhammad Ali, the former heavyweight champion of the world during a news conference in Minneapolis. Ali said he wants two fights before his return but with Joe Frazier and that the rematch would be around the first of next year. He said his next fight will be in about two months. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Barnes' Five-Hitter Overshadows HRS

KINGSTON — Gary Barnes' 5-hit pitching stint for Lincoln Park Inn was in stark contrast to heavy bombardment in other games in the City Slow Pitch League's National Division "A." Barnes notched a 20-2 victory over Perry's Rest in a game marked by four home runs. The game was stopped by the 13-run rule.

League sluggers accounted for 14 home runs in the four-game set, as Ferraro's Bowlerama defeated Shamrock Tavern, 6-3; Garden of Eden topped Ray's Village Inn, 15-10; and Rhinebeck Merchants pressed Esposito's Cleaners, 12-4.

Art Gribbons slugged two homers and a single to knock in four runs for Lincoln Park Inn. Barnes helped his own cause with a homer, single and 3 RBIs. Bob Smith homered and singled and Ron McCord stroked a single-triple combination.

Chick Boice homered and Jerry Hawkins stroked three singles to pace Ferraro's win over Shamrock.

New Paltz Second In NAIA Track

TRENTON, N.J. — Fine performances by an undermanned New Paltz State track team here Wednesday helped give Coach Ed Bell's Hawks a second place finish in the NAIA District 31 championships.

New Paltz notched 38 points to wind up runner-up to host Trenton State which tallied 98. New York Tech was third with 33.

Other schools in the meet were Bloomfield State, Jersey City State, Marist, Newark College of Engineering and Paterson State.

The Hawks were down to 12 men for their final action of the season since final exams forced many of the NP thinclads to remain behind. Among them were ace high jumper Jimmy Munz and discus entrant Jon Tucker. Then Sidney Way pulled up lame in the 440 relay and New Paltz was short still another man.

"I certainly think that we would have done better with a full team," declared Coach Bell. "This meet was postponed three times and we went into it with about a week long lay-off."

Ken Potter was the standout for New Paltz. He set a new team record in winning the triple jump with a leap of 45 feet one inch, then tied for first in the long jump at 21-8, only to lose in a playoff.

Omar Rodriguez picked up second place in the 880 as he covered the distance in 2:01.1 to finish behind the two minute run of winner Tony Servidio of Trenton State. Bob Cunningham of New Paltz was fifth.

The mile relay team of Barry Bloomfield, Rodriguez, Raymond Jackman, and Earl White was also second in 3:30.2. Trenton State took this event in 3:28.5.

Ken Cseple, running despite being under the weather, streaked to the No. 2 spot in the 100 yard dash in ten flat. Mel Johnson of New York Tech nosed him out for the win in 9.9. New Paltz's Eddie Heinsman was fourth.

Cseple also took a fourth in the 220 with 23.2. The first place time of 22.7 was turned in by Art Morris of Jersey City.

New Paltz was third, fourth was 50.2.

Jackman was fourth in the shot put for the Hawks. His toss of 41-3/4 was a personal high.

Steve Keane was fifth in the shot put for the Hawks. His toss of 41-3/4 was a personal high.

Back to Bargaining Table in Rondout Valley

By JON POWERS

It's back to the bargaining table for the Rondout Valley Teachers' Association and the Board of Education.

After hearing statements from the teachers, the public and the Superintendent of Schools at a legislative hearing Thursday night, the Board of Education voted to resume the negotiations it had suspended last week.

But the Board staunchly refused to reveal what objections it had to a contract that had been recommended by a factfinder and accepted by the teachers. Board members declined to rebut statements made by the teachers and the public and the decision to resume negotiations was made behind closed doors.

A legislative hearing is the final step in Taylor Law provisions outlined to solve a contract dispute, and may be called only after an impasse has been reached, a factfinder's report rejected and further negotiations stalled. Once a legislative hearing is held, a Board of Education is empowered to make a final ruling on any contract dispute.

Before the legislative hearing was recessed, President VanNewkirk said that the Board would come back with one of two decisions: either an announcement that the Board would return to the bargaining table; or a date when the Board would announce final details of the contract.

The legislative hearing lasted for one hour; the Board met in executive session for 40 minutes, but by the time it returned with a "verdict," only 23 of the more than 20 persons in attendance remained.

In a brief statement, VanNewkirk said only that the "Board of Education, by a majority vote, has elected to return to the negotiating table." VanNewkirk added that at the Board, and in eight of those nine areas he recommended "acceptance of the factfinder's report." The teachers, earlier, had accepted the factfinder's report in its entirety. Of major importance to the RVTA is the inclusion of a "class size article" in the new contract, an article that the Board opposes and that Robertaccio indicated was unnecessary. "The Board of Education has shown an interest in class size over the past eight years," said the superintendent "and a county-wide survey shows that Rondout Valley is a leader in maintaining class size." The teachers said that they were not asking for specific class size numbers, but apparently want an assurance that attempts to maintain an optimal teacher-student ratio will continue. Future negotiations may be centered around this point, with Kuster stating, "We cannot have an agreement without a class size article." Other areas where Robertaccio recommended acceptance of the factfinder's report included summer stipend, professional auxiliary activities, added compensation for coordinators and chairmen and extracurricular activities. The Superintendent recommended that the proposed salary schedule (starting at $7,500 for a BA) be accepted, but only for the first year. He said that the $8,200 starting salary level for 1972-73 was "unwise," and that it should, instead, "be renegotiated at the proper time." He also approved of the two-year "duration of contract," but called for a "salary reopener for 1972-73." Robertaccio said that, with the added salary, extra duty, insurance and increments provisions, the new contract would raise the district budget by some $325,540 over the amount already approved. While Robertaccio cited nine areas of difference between the teachers and Board of Education, Kuster said that the two parties were at odds in only three areas: class size, insurance and salary. The teachers, it was indicated, are willing to accept payment of 50 per cent of family insurance (it is now 35 per cent) with an increase to 75 per cent next year. The teachers said they will not consider negotiating for salaries less than recommended by the factfinder (starting at $7,600). They also expressed opposition to establishment of a new salary schedule that would apparently eliminate some increments, stating that they are interested in "maintaining a salary schedule that will reward experience and education."

The Board of Education met in special session after the legislative hearing to discuss transportation problems.

Stewart Jetport... Opposite Views

By WADE BURKHART

NEW PALTZ
The views on the proposed jetport at Stewart Airport of Harry Thayer, of WGHQ, and Joseph Richichi of the Stop the Jetport Action Committee, collided at Thursday night's meeting of the New Palitz Homeowner's Association.

Dr. Herber Weinman, head of the association, said they had been requested to represent both sides of the controversy, and that is what they tried to do. They succeeded.

Thayer is a firm supporter of the jetport. He thought transportation to be a vital element in the nation's prosperity, and said "You can't stifle the growth, development, and expansion of this great country." In his opinion, stopping the jetport would do just that.

Thayer thought a jetport would bring new jobs and prosperity to the Hudson Valley in general, and Newburgh in particular. Southern Ulster County and Orange County have the potential to become "a second Westchester," Thayer said.

The growth that would accompany the creation of a jetport at Stewart could be controlled by "sane, sensible, carefully chosen governmental representation," Thayer said, plus proper zoning. If the jetport should become a reality, in the future we will "all say hallelujah," said Thayer, for the stable jobs, increased income, and increased business it would bring to the Hudson Valley.

Thayer said the jetport would bring to the Hudson Valley the same sort of technologically oriented people as IBM has. "And what better people to bring into a community?" Thayer asked.

Richichi is thoroughly opposed to the jetport. His general policy in his opposition is to leave no stone unturned, and he opposes it on a number of points. He says it is unnecessary; current airport overcrowding could be solved by better flight scheduling. Even if the jetport should prove to be necessary, it should be put somewhere else. If placed in Newburgh it would turn out to be another Dulles Airport, generally reputed to be a "white elephant" and what Richichi calls a "millstone around the necks of the taxpayers." Even if it were placed in Newburgh and successful, the noise would be intolerable and the discharges of the jets would be a major pollutant, he added. Richichi concedes that some communities may derive some economic benefits from the jetport, but he thinks the price in terms of the environment is much too high.

Richichi said that some proponents of the jetport says it should be started now, lest some other state get it and its benefits. Richichi said, "Hogwash. What other state wants it?" He said, "New York has turned it down, Connecticut has turned it down, New Jersey has turned it down, what other state is there?"

Richichi's group has supported the cargo port idea for Stewart, and he was enthusiastic over the "wetport" idea. The "wetport" would be located in the Atlantic Ocean, with a landfill connecting it to Long Island. He said the proposed cost was in the neighborhood of $6 billion, but it would return $5 billion in real estate to the tax rolls when Kennedy and LaGuardia Airports were returned to private hands.

Thayer seemed very skeptical of the "jetport" notion, and was solidly opposed to the cargo port idea, which he said would not bring in the sort of industry that would help the Newburgh area.

About the only thing Thayer and Richichi had in common was that each felt called upon to take a pot shot at Governor Rockefeller. Richichi called the Governor's request for funds to buy land around Stewart for future expansion of the facility "a $30 million land grab." Thayer said the controversial South Mall in Albany was like the Taj Mahal, in that they were both built in honor of a ruler's wife, and referred to the project as "the Happy Mall."

Guardsmen Ready to Leave for Training at Camp Drum

KINGSTON
Local National Guardsmen, members of 1st Battalion, 156th Field Artillery, with Batteries in Kingston, Poughkeepsie, and Newburgh, move to annual field training at Camp Drum, New York, on Saturday under the command of Lt. Colonel Karl C. Verbeck.

The Guard unit is part of the 50th Armored Division which is composed of New Jersey, Vermont, and New York troops. This marks the fourth year for the 50th as a three-state organization.

The unit will move to Camp Drum, near Watertown, New York, via military convoy. More than 2,000 vehicles of the 50th Armored Division will be traveling over the roads from home stations in the three states. Local Guardsmen will be engaged in intensive training for 15 days. Upon arrival to Camp Drum, the 156th will immediately set up in the field, where they will stay in training until Thursday, June 3. The men will travel to the cantonment area for the weekend, and then return for in-field training for three more days.

The 24-hour tactical period will take place in the second week in the field. This will be a period when a simulated combat situation will be put into effort, including the serving of four meals comprised solely of C-rations.

Lt. Colonel Verbeck said that the goal of annual training will be, "unit readiness to meet our mobilization mission. This is all the more important this year," he said, "in view of the recent re-emphasis by the Department of the Army of the role of the National Guard as the primary back-up force to the active army."

The commander pointed out that the local Guardsmen will be "required to successfully complete Battery-level Army Training Tests, employing live fire conducted under rigorous safety standards."

These tests enable the Department of the Army to measure the units' proficiency level, readiness and progress toward its goal of mobilization preparedness.

Thayer seemed very skeptical of the "jetport" notion, and was solidly opposed to the cargo port idea, which he said would

Lady Bartender Ban In California Voided

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — into legal restrictions on employment opportunities for women," Peters said of the 1936 law.
 "The pedestal upon which women have been placed has all too often . . . been revealed as a cage."
 Peters noted that the state attorney general had argued that the legislature believed that a male bartender or owner must be present to preserve order and protect patrons.
 "This argument ignores modern day reality," Peters said. "Today most bars, unlike the saloons of the Old West, are relatively quiet, orderly and respectable places patronized by both men and women."
 The court ruled on appeals by two Los Angeles bar operators, Sailors Inn, Inc., and Walter Robson. The state Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control had sought to revoke their licenses for using women bartenders.
 "Such tender and chivalrous concern for the well being of the female half of the adult population cannot be translated

 SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain (UPI)—Four gunmen pounced upon French Consul-General Henri Woliner Thursday night outside his home, stuck a submachine gun and a pistol in his face and tried to abduct him. Woliner threw a few punches and a few unprintable invectives and the men fled.
 The assailants, believed to be Basque nationalist extremists, jumped Woliner at his doorstep when he came home from work. One of them tried to throw a coat over his head, but Woliner dodged it, ignored the guns and let them have it, cursing loudly.

Negotiations Moving Slowly In Ellenville School District

ELLENVILLE night in the Rondout Valley employee associations, accord-

Negotiations are moving slowly between the Ellenville School District and the clerical staff and the bus drivers.

According to Thomas Hayden, superintendent of schools, the clerical staff talks have gone through negotiation, are in mediation, and may have to go to fact finding. The bus driver talks have gone through negotiation and have entered mediation. The clerical staff is represented by the Ellenville Central Schools Clerical Staff Association, and the bus drivers by the Civil Service Employees Association.

Mediations and fact finders are supplied by the state's Public Employment Relations Board. Under the Taylor Law, negotiations can progress from negotiation, where the parties try to work something out themselves, to mediation, where an outside party tries to help things along, to fact finding, where an outside party examines and reports on the facts of a case as he sees them, to finally a legislative hearing, such as will be held to-

Innocent Plea On Four Charges

KINGSTON A 20-year-old youth was arraigned before City Judge Hubert A. Richter today on four charges involving drugs and vehicle and traffic law violations stemming from a traffic accident on West O'Reilly Street near the New York Telephone Company building.

Morgan J. Schoonmaker of 44 Ravine Street pleaded innocent to the charges. His driver's license was suspended and bail was fixed at $1,000. Hearing was adjourned until June 1 and Judge Richter said he would assign counsel for the defendant.

He was arrested Thursday by Kingston police on charges of criminal possession of dangerous drugs third degree, a felony, and operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of drugs, leaving the scene of an accident and failure to produce a registration certificate for the car he was driving.

Police said they found Schoonmaker in possession of a bottle containing 75 capsules containing alleged drugs—barbital sodium.

According to police, the vehicle driven by Schoonmaker reportedly jumped the curb, hit a parking sign post and then traveled part way up a utility pole. Schoonmaker, authorities said, managed to back the car to the street and then drove it to his home where he was arrested.

Peekskill Station Blasted by Gunfire

PEEKSKILL, N.Y. (AP) — It was over almost as soon as it began. A short burst of four shots from a carbine slammed into the brick wall and plate glass window of police headquarters here Thursday night.

At the first shot, Lt. Gregory Rushforth thought kids had exploded a firecracker.

"There were a few kids in here just a few minutes before," Rushforth said. "I never suspected it was gunfire." The veteran police officer inspected the damage outside the building and was quickly convinced.

How long have you been on the force, he was asked?

"After this? Too damn long," was his reply.

Police Chief Milton Booth said the shots came from the rooftop of an abandoned four-story building across the street. One of the 30 caliber bullets struck a door frame while the other three shattered the plate glass window in a foyer just outside the main office.

"There was absolutely no incident leading up to this attack," Booth declared, stating his puzzlement at the unprovoked assault.

He said he and other officers now believe the shooting incident was fostered by the recent attacks on New York City police and officers in other communities.

"This would have to lead us to believe that," he said. He added that the city of 22,000 has been quiet and tranquil in recent months and that his department was holding down the crime rate "to a comparable level with the rest of the area."

"We're so close to New York City," he added, "that we get a lot of the overflow, transients and the like." Peekskill is in Westchester County.

Booth, a 33-year veteran of the force and in his third year as chief, said an investigation of the building across the street turned up four spent cartridges on the roof, but no other clues.

He and Rushforth, a 40-year veteran who declines to list his age, said it was the first time either of them could remember anything similar happening in Peekskill.

Meanwhile, the city's 45-man police force has been out on alert and instructed to be extra cautious.

Gradual Death Facing New York Rent Control

NEW YORK (AP) — Twenty-eight years of rent control in this city appeared today to face a gradual death after the Lindsay administration made final, almost-certainly futile gestures to save it.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller was expected to sign the bill, which he sponsored and the legislature passed Wednesday, that lifts rent controls on 1.7 million apartments as they become vacant after June 30.

The long-term effect of "vacancy decontrol"—city officials say it will take six or even seven years for the 1.3 million rent-controlled and 400,000 rent-stabilized apartments to change hands—remained a subject of controversy.

Mayor John V. Lindsay telegraphed the governor Thursday urging him to veto the enacted suburbs and lead landlords to harass tenants out of their apartments so they could raise rents.

He directed Corporation Counsel J. Lee Rankin to study ways of invalidating the state's bill in court, but officials said privately that the success of legal challenges seemed remote.

Landlord and real estate groups expressed elation over the measure, saying it would spur new investment in existing apartments and a renewed interest in new construction by private builders.

Rent controls have existed in New York City since World War II, when they were imposed to prevent gouging during the housing shortage then.

Housing again is short in the city, with a vacancy rate of less than one per cent. However, this time landlords have blamed rent control. They claim income has not kept pace with rising costs, and as a result older buildings are being abandoned and few new ones are being built.

"It's the greatest single step forward in the history of New York City's effort to solve its housing problems," said Rexford E. Tompkins, president of the Real Estate Board of New York, about the new measure.

Tenant groups and many city Democrats attacked the bill vigorously.

They assailed the governor and Republican legislative leaders for coupling the vacancy decontrol measure for New York with a measure extending controls elsewhere. This tactic was credited with helping win support upstate.

Councilman Matthew J. Troy Jr., the Democrat county leader from Queens, said the bill was "the most flagrant violation of home-rule in the history of city-state relations."

Decontrol is scheduled to take effect June 30, but many housing experts said its impact would be felt immediately because many landlords would wait until July to fill vacancies that occur in the coming month.

Queens Coatpresser Wins $25,000 for Life Prize

NEW YORK (UPI) — A coatpresser and his family have won $25,000 a year for life in the New York State lottery's first lifetime income drawing.

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Palmieri of Queens shared the ticket with their daughter, Mrs. Concetta Maggione, and her husband, Raymond.

"We're in," shouted Mrs. Palmieri as the winners were announced Thursday. After the screaming, hugging and crying died down, the 55-year-old seamstress said "The first thing the money will go for is the grandchildren's education."

The $25,000-a-year prize carries with it a guarantee of at least $500,000. With four names on the winning ticket, the two couples or their heirs are guaranteed equal payments of at least $125,000 each.

Ike Battles, a 59-year-old Erie, Pa., policeman, won $75,000, but said: "It's not going to make much of a difference in my life. There are more important things than money."

Battles, who attended the drawing with his son, Ike Jr., 27, said he had not decided what to do with the money. His wife works for an electronic firm and he said "It's entirely up to her" whether she continues working.

The third prize of $40,000 went to the Bielat family of Dunkirk and Dorothy Starwalt, a married sister. Fourth prize of $15,000 went to Marc Fried of Brooklyn.

Young American Award Goes to Catskill Youth

ATLANTA, Ga. (UPI) — A New York State youth is among six young people who have been honored with Young America awards for outstanding achievement by the Boy Scouts of America.

The honors were presented on Thursday during the 61st annual meeting of the scouts' national council, which drew some 4,000 adult scout leaders from 50 states, foreign nations and U.S. possessions.

James Heath of Catskill, N.Y., a freshman at the State University at Oswego, was honored for contributions in the field of service. A black youth, he founded the Baptist Youth Movement in Catskill and was a volunteer worker with the Heart Fund in the "Save Your Children" campaign. President Nixon said that Heath "typifies juvenile decency in action."

Craig Rudin, 18, a Princeton University student from Richmond, Va., was honored for outstanding achievement in the field of science for designing a heart-lung pump.

David Powell of Salt Lake City, Utah, was recognized for accomplishments in the fields of religion, athletics and music.

Virginia Stroud of Bacone, Okla., who has the title of "Miss Indian America," was cited for achievement in service and art.

Clayton Taylor, 19, of Otawa, Okla., received his award for contributions in service and athletics.

The sixth recipient was Claudia C. Turner of Spartanburg, S.C., first runner-up in the Miss America contest. She was honored for outstanding service in the field of religion.

Your Horoscope

Saturday, May 29

Saturday, May 29, 1971
GENERAL TENDENCIES: Be very careful and accurate in business dealings, otherwise there could be trouble later from contracts, sales purchases. You find also that your attachment needs assurance of your affection. Do not get into arguments with anyone.
ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) If you permit desire for pleasure to overshadow duty in practical affairs, you can lose a great deal today. One with an eye on your assets could be especially insistent. Put talents to work.
TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Try to please family more at this time and improve harmony at home, otherwise harsh words could start big trouble. Find out what is at the bottom of any difficulty. Thank others for favors given you.
GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Make sure you have facts and details right before you keep the appointment or take that little trip. If an associate wants to argue, don't take the bait. Keep cool.
MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You cannot straighten that matter out by simply spending money, but only by sticking to principle. A business expert should be consulted if you want to settle a practical problem, too. Control temper.
LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Any show of vanity or pride could gain disfavor of others now since their tempers are short and you could suffer loss. Improve appearance before going out socially. Make the right impression.
VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You feel like running away from responsibilities, but this would only make matters worse so get to work. The right mood sees you accomplishing a great deal. Forget pleasure now.
LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You had better forget about taking up some controversial subject with others until a better time; otherwise serious trouble could arise now. Decide what you really want, since you are not yet sure.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)

Avoid doing anything that will irk higher-ups today, or you get into all sorts of hot water. Following every regulation that applies to you is wise. Stop being a fuss budget.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Ideal day to investigate new outlets you have in mind, since they could prove quite lucrative in days ahead. Don't jump into some new project proposed by a stranger, or you get into trouble. Follow own ideas.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You had better get all that work done early before you go traipsing over to fun places that appeal to you. Antagonizing associates or loved one could start all kinds of arguments that are best avoided. Show you have wisdom.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have some creative idea which you want to discuss with another, but it is better to wait for a better day. Steer clear of partners now since they are in an irate mood. Stick to own knitting exclusively.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You have to labor with care today or you could easily make mistakes or do damage that is expensive and unnecessary. A fellow worker is in the mood to fight, so don't let sarcastic remarks get under your skin. Drive carefully.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those egotistical little charmers who will do almost anything to gain the limelight, so teach while young to think of and have feelings for others, or the fine ambition here will be ruined because of the antagonism aroused by such a course of conduct. Give as thorough an education as you can and slant it toward government work, the acting profession, the pulpit and whatever other profession requires a good personality. The Stars impel, they do not compel.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

In 1886, the Statue of Liberty was dedicated as a symbol of freedom, commemorating Franco-American friendship. The World Almanac notes that the 225-ton statue was created by French sculptor Frederic Bartholdi, who visualized a colossal statue at the entrance to New York harbor, welcoming the peoples of the world with the torch of liberty.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

UN-STEADY: (Q.) After we had a few dates, this girl asked me to go steady. I thought her asking was pretty unusual. I told her I didn't want to. But she finally bugged me into trying it for one week. I gave her my school ring. When the week was up I still didn't want to go steady, and I told her. But she hasn't given me my ring back. How can I get it back without hurting her feelings?—Unchanged in Kenosha, Wis.
(A.) She sounds like a very aggressive girl. I believe she can stand to have her feelings hurt just a little. And that may be necessary.
Tell her in a firm but kind manner that you want your ring back. If she has it with her when you ask, tell her you want it now. If she doesn't, ask her to bring it to school the next day.
If she is honest as well as aggressive, she will give it back to you.
SHORT, ROUND: (Q.) I'm short and plump and nearly 13. I am making a maxi skirt with a black background and orange, yellow, and white flowers. Do you think it will look OK on me? If so, what type of blouse should I wear with it?—Learning to Sew in Wyoming.
(A.) Minis, maxis, pants, or hot pants look better than midis on short girls.
A black or white peasant blouse should go with your skirt. If you wear black well and don't think it's too sophisticated for your age, a black blouse would be a good idea.
The black blouse above the black skirt wouldn't "cut you in two in the middle and as a result you would look taller and slimmer."
That is a good way for a girl your size and shape to look. (Want personal answers to your questions? Write to Jean Adams, Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001. Only letters that include a stamped, self-addressed envelope will be answered.)

'Comment' Filling Gap on TV

NEW YORK (AP) — NBC's "Comment" next Sunday afternoon will be built around pornography and censorship, related subjects which may, by their very nature, increase the program's weekly audience. It routinely runs between 6 million and 8 million.

The half-hour, launched at midseason by the network with Edwin Newman introducing the guests, is a one-of-a-kind public service program—not a talk show, not a debate.

"Our idea is to fill a gap," explained producer Fred Freed. "We thought that people with ideas or opinions, people who are well known or not known at all, should have a chance to explain their views without interruption, without editing."

The result may not always result in especially stimulating television, but a lot of people have been given a chance to speak their pieces in their allotted time—four and one-half minutes. The program consists simply of three or four people ...facing a camera and reading piece without any notes in pre-mostly because the requests their pieces from a teleprompter. Many people with very good or even very bad ideas are nervous in front of cameras and others write pre-boring statements.

Politicians, as a group, are the worst, Freed says.

"They are used to making speeches. We say, 'Look, you've got four and one-half minutes to say anything.' And then they come up with a canned speech, which is the worst thing anyone can do."

The producer and his staff comb 80 publications each week looking for likely subjects and guests, who are then invited.

Each guest is instructed to appear for a taping with a statement he has himself written. Writer Tom Wolfe sat in the "Comment" office for eight hours and banged out more than 50 pages of copy. This was boiled down to 16 pages by Wolfe and further diluted later. Scientist Edward Teller refused to use a script—and said his

East and West have 22 high-card points; North and South only 18. East and West do have a 4-4 fit in hearts, but with the heart finesse losing and the 10 of clubs in the wrong hand the best they can make is two hearts.

If North and South keep still East or West will become declarer at two hearts and a spade is likely to be opened or to be led after a couple of rounds of diamonds. In that case, if declarer tries the heart finesse he will go down one trick because he will lose a ruff of a spade in addition to two diamonds, two clubs and the king of hearts.

The panel that analyzed the charity game did not pay any attention to the fact that the hand really belongs to East and West, but the players we watched did.

The bidding in the box is that at the first table we watched. South put in one of those non-vulnerable preemptive jump overcalls and bought the hand at three diamonds. He had no trouble making his contract with an overtrick.

At the next table we went to, East decided to open with one heart. South passed. West raised to two hearts and when that was passed around to South he refused to seek out and bid three diamonds. West went to three hearts. North bid four diamonds and East who must have been a trifle hungry elected to double.

South made the same four diamonds but scored 510, instead of just 130, for a real top score.
